DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

- a. Claim 11 has two periods where it is allowed to have only one period at the end of the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-7 and 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weihrauch (5779610).

- a. Weihrauch discloses an apparatus having a tubular core (11) fasteners (12), a cover (21&22), and velcro (which has both male and female fasteners see claim 5, 9, and 19 as well as Summary of the invention).
- b. In regard to the claim with regard to a male element being .3 mm and a female element being 4 mm, It would have been obvious because "a person of ordinary skill has good reason to pursue the known options within his or her technical grasp. If this leads to anticipated success, it is likely the product not of innovation but of ordinary skill and common sense.

- c. In regard to the density of the elements male and female, the range of 30 to 150 per cm squared would have been obvious because the design incentives or market forces provided a reason to make an adaptation, and the invention resulted from application of the prior knowledge in a predictable manner. It is also noted that different densities of velcro patterns are old and well known in the art.
3. Claims 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weihrach (5779610) as applied to claims 1-7 and 11-13 above, and further in view of Polzin et al (2002/0112810A1).
- d. Weihrach discloses except for spirally wound. Polzin et al discloses the claimed elements were known in the prior art and one skilled in the art could have combined the elements as claimed by known methods with no change in their respective functions and the combination would have yielded predictable results to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention. (see figs. 1-4)
- e. In regard to the density of the elements male and female, synthetic resin would have been obvious because the design incentives or market forces provided a reason to make an adaptation, and the invention resulted from application of the prior knowledge in a predictable manner. It is also noted that selecting this material would be a matter of simple design choice..
4. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weihrach (5779610) as applied to claims 1-7 and 11-13 above, and further in view of Yamaguchi (2003/0213083A1).

f. Weihrach discloses except for heat fusing fibers. Yamaguchi discloses the heat fusing fibers and heat welding elements were known in the prior art and one skilled in the art could have combined the elements as claimed by known methods with no change in their respective functions and the combination would have yielded predictable results to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention. (see par.26-80)

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The 892 form discloses prior art being made of record.
